J. J. Brown, one of the best known mine operators in the United States, arrived in the Border City last Wednesday and is registered at the Montezuma from Denver, Colorado. Mr. Brown comes to look after his mining interests in this part of the world.

The prospecting party composed of Messrs. Milton, Kuntz and Smith, has been out the past two months returning Monday loaded with samples of rich copper and silver ore. The boys report having had a fine time hunting and prospecting and will return to the hills in the near future. Captain Milton and Mr. Kuntz, tell an interesting story of an experience they had in the mountains with a black wolf which was smaller than a cow and larger than a calf. On account of the roughness of the country and rapidly with which the animal took its departure from their immediate vicinity they did not succeed in laying it low notwithstanding the fact that both the gentlemen are dead shots.

MORGAN IN MANILA.

A Newspaper Man's Experience With the White Man's Burden.

Walter T. Gregory, newspaper man and Rough Rider, has lately emerged from a hospital at Manila. He was one of the "casualties" in one of the numerous scraps with the insurgents. Mr. Gregory has had a varied experience with miner strikers at Bull Hill, Colorado, and with Spanish soldiery at Las Guasimas and San Juan Hill, but he has a greater measure of respect for the bravery of the Filipinos than he had for the Colorados or the Spaniards.

The following letter, published in the Republican was written from Manila to a friend in Phoenix.

I wish somebody would identify me. I am in doubt as to whether I am I. I have devoted several weeks to a personal analysis, but the results are nil. My perplexity is deep. Since writing you last week has happened to me. I expected to be here a month ago, but was taken very sick at Frisco with malaria and other complications and had to spend a few weeks in a hospital. The journey here occupied five weeks, but I enjoyed the trip immensely. I saw Mrs. Ome and Norman at Honolulu and was never so glad to meet anybody in my life.

"I arrived here a few days ago and immediately went to the front to join my regiment. I had no sooner got there than I had to take a hand in a scrap with the Filipinos. I was too anxious to get a shot at one of the heathens and leaped too far out of the trench. The consequence was disastrous, for I got a bullet through the point of my left shoulder. I thought I had been struck with a club. I was sent back here to the hospital. The wound is hardly more than a scratch, but it is very painful. I will return to the front in a couple of days.

"The insurgents are devils and without fear and I think it will be some time before we get them under control. They are firing on us all the time and our advance is very slow. My regiment made a cavalry charge the other day, but our men were knocked from their saddles like nine pins and the charge was repulsed. We have only three troops mounted, one troop of American horses and the other two of Filipino ponies no larger than bullocks.

"The situation is more serious here than is believed in the states, for the rebels fire with a determination and persistence that cannot be admired. They harass our troops on all sides and a man never knows what minute he will be bowled over. A constant danger, however, makes one indifferent. There is an excitement that thrills a fellow so that the hard-ship is lost sight of. My Cuban experience has taught me considerable when stand me in good stead. If I don't get my wings clipped I will shortly write a long description of the country and my experiences in this campaign.

"This letter was dated at Manila one month ago today. It will be observed that Mr. Gregory, unlike many other soldiers, shows no criticism of the management of the war or the policy that dictates it. He writes like a member of the centurion's band to whom a "Do this" meant that it would be done. He is one of the many who will come out of the war heroes, and not one of the many more who will emerge from it military critics and bastards of personal performance.—Citizen.

R. G. DUN & CO'S

Monthly Review of Trade Conditions For April in Southern California.

The April business throughout the country was very satisfactory. The aggregate of bank clearances for the month registered a gain of 65.5 per cent over April a year ago and 102 over April '97. The failures were smallest in any month since records by months have been recorded by the Agency.

Rumors of a number of trade and industrial combinations are in the air, and in some lines the markets are effected somewhat by a waiting for the outcome of these new combinations that possess special interest in the commercial world. General market tones are strong for this time of year, and fail business booked is conceded to be unusually large.

Reports as to crops, upon which the prospects of the coming fiscal year largely depends, are of yet conflicting, but on the whole promise an average output.

The price market has been generally steady.

In Southern California crop prospects are not bright. The lack of rain has effected grain crop most. There will be very little wheat, and in general the barley will not be good enough for grain and will go to hay, maturing soon in height and quality. However, in spite of large acreage cut, the hay output will not be large as the yield per acre is very light.

A fairly good crop of deciduous fruit is anticipated. Apricot prospects, while offering no hope for anything but a light crop, are better than a few weeks ago. Peach trees are setting in too heavily, promising all the trees can carry. Pears and prunes in spite of dropping may make an average showing.

Citrus fruit goes forward slowly. Market for choice fruit is firm, with good demand. Sweets and seedlings are mostly being shipped. Valencia seed back. The season's shipment will reach 10,000 carloads. Both lemon and orange trees are reported setting well for new crop.

Dried fruit stocks run low and are firm held. Indications are for high prices for new stock. Canners are preparing for active season. The California Packers Association have incorporated to regulate and control prices of canned fruit.

Best thinking is in progress. It is due to speculate in quantity of beets that will find the way to factories. The crop prospect is much better than at this time last year and half an inch of rain in May would develop many more acres.

Mining and oil industries are prosperous, and railroad improvements active.

Locally the wholesale trade shows the between season volume. The retailers report good demand.

Our April failures reflect the business tone of other sections of the country. The record is unprecedented. But ten failures reported for month 1 delinquent $17,322.32, assets $6,869.20.
